

Carson Palmer Golf Tournament ...

What do Carson Palmer, quarterback for the Cincinnati Bengals, Pete Carroll, USC football coach, Ahman Green, running back for the Green Bay Packers, Kyle Kring and Ken Chung from the prestigious law firm of Kring and Chung Attorneys, LLP have in common? They all attended and participated in some or all of the 2nd annual Carson Palmer Open on July 18, 2005 at Monarch Beach Golf Links. The sole purpose of this event was to raise money to help the children at Hillview Acres Children's Home. With the combined efforts of Kring & Chung Attorneys, LLP and AthletesFirst, a remarkable and highly successful golf tournament took place. I heard reports from several attendees of the golf tournament that it was the best golf tournament they had ever attended. There were roughly 200 golfers including many celebrities from the sports world that came together to play golf, have a great time, get some sun and benefit injured children. With the help of generous sponsorships from people like Ira Herman from Northwestern Mutual, Ross Feinberg from the law offices of Feinberg-Grant-Mayfield-Kaneda & Litt, and Weng Lam from Wahoo's Tacos, Hillview was able to raise about $70,000 from the evening's auction alone. Carson himself added to that a pitch (or I should say pass) for people to participate in Team Palmer. Those who participate in Team Palmer agree to pledge to Hillview a certain amount of money per touchdown pass that Carson throws this year. That team is still looking for players! If you would like to join Team Palmer by agreeing to donate any amount of money per touchdown pass this year, please contact Jessica Barnes at AthletesFirst (949)472-2222. All in all the 2nd Annual Carson Palmer Open was a huge success. Everyone involved is looking forward to even bigger and better things at the 3rd Annual Carson Palmer Open next year.

Ira Herman
and Carson Palmer

Kring and Chung Foursome
with Carson Palmer

Rudi Johnson

Ross Feimberg
and son

USC Band

Ahman Green and
Sam "Bam" Cunningham

John Allred
and Pete Carroll

Grateful in All Things ...

This is my 26th year at Hillview and I have seen many changes over my time here. I still stand in somewhat shock and awe that Hillview is the beneficiary of events like the Carson Palmer Open or the October Gala at the Summit House, featuring Michael Reagan. I am deeply grateful for all those who have come together to make these things happen. I am particularly grateful to Carson for his willingness to lend his name and time to help us...for Mr. Reagan being willing to speak at our event. Having said that, I am also reminded of the decades of faithful participation that all of you have had in making Hillview what it is today. Hillview would not be able to participate in events like these if it were not for ongoing faithful support of all of you. Yes....I am deeply grateful to Carson, Reagan and their associates for these events, but I am equally grateful for you who have supported us through the years. Hillview still needs you. Don't think for a moment that because of a wonderful tournament or an exciting dinner, that Hillview no longer needs you....we need you more than ever. The needs of our kids are growing. The cost of doing business continues to increase. It takes everyone who is connected with Hillview to help us. Thank you for your years of commitment....you have blessed countless lives.

Ron Storm, CEO

